NYLPI files Complaint with Attorney General's Office
On behalf of Bronx Health REACH

On June 9th, 2008, the steps of Bronx Borough Hall were filled with hundreds of Bronx residents, religious and community leaders, health professionals and advocates rallying for the end of separate and unequal treatment in the health care system. They gathered to support the complaint filed by NYLPI on behalf of Bronx Health REACH to the Attorney General's Office, which identifies discrimination in outpatient care at various private hospitals in New York City.

"The complaint documents specific findings of system-wide policies and practices contributing to the segregation of care," remarked Nisha Agarwal, NYLPI Staff Attorney/Skadden Fellow. "This is in direct conflict with federal and local civil rights laws, which state that patients have a right to receive treatment without discrimination as to race, color, national origin and source of payment."

Bronx Health REACH, a coalition including 40 community and faith-based organizations committed to eliminating racial disparities in health care, conducted research that documented these findings. The study found that surveyors posing as patients were often referred to separate paths of care, for example

NYLPI Bestows a Partnering for Justice Award on Stroock & Stroock & Lavan LLP

On June 25th, 2008, NYLPI presented its Partnership for Justice Award to Stroock & Stroock & Lavan LLP for the firm's exemplary pro bono representation on behalf of underserved communities in conjunction with the firm's annual pro bono awards.

Michael A. Rothenberg, NYLPI's Executive Director, said of the award, "We are delighted to present our Partnering for Justice Award to Stroock & Stroock & Lavan for their outstanding pro bono work, particularly their extraordinary efforts to advance the rights of and opportunities for students with disabilities."

NYLPI honored Stroock for its outstanding pro bono efforts in the area of special education and community development. Of the dozens of special education related cases Stroock has taken on, one particular special education matter involves Benjamin M., a fifteen-year-old boy with Asperger's Syndrome. The firm was able to successfully obtain funding for his tuition to an appropriate school for the 2007-2008 school year.

Along with their special education work, Stroock has taken on the role of general counsel for the Brooklyn Perinatal Network, an organization that works to prevent and reduce infant/maternal illness and death in underserved and vulnerable communities.

Kevin J. Curmin, Director of Stroock's Public Service Project, remarked, "We are honored to receive this prestigious award. Many thanks to the firm's attorneys and support staff who dedicated their time and efforts to assisting those in need in the local New York community."

About NYLPI

OUR MISSION

New York Lawyers for the Public Interest is a nonprofit, civil rights law firm that strives for social justice. In partnership with member law firms, corporate law departments, and other organizations, NYLPI helps underrepresented people develop legal strategies to serve their vision for themselves and their communities.

OUR WORK

Created in 1976 to address unmet legal needs, NYLPI combines a pro bono clearinghouse with an in-house practice that blends innovative lawyering, community organizing, and advocacy.

The Pro Bono Clearinghouse provides community groups and nonprofit organizations with free legal assistance by drawing on hundreds of volunteer lawyers from New York's most prestigious law firms and corporate law departments.

The Disability Law Center protects and promotes the civil rights of people with disabilities.

The Environmental Justice and Community Development Project provides organizing and legal assistance to low-income neighborhoods and communities of color that bear an unfair burden of environmental threats.

The Access to Health Care Program works to ensure access to quality health care for people in medically underserved communities or facing barriers due to limited English proficiency, racial and ethnic discrimination, or disability.

NYLPI Bids Farewell to Summer 2008 Interns

NYLPI recognizes the outstanding contributions of our exceptional class of 2008 summer legal interns.

Peter Giordano of Indiana University School of Law, Lauren Hansen from the University of Iowa College of Law, Samar Katnani at the Washington University School of Law, Monique Luse from Georgetown University Law Center, Maya Simek at Cleveland-Marshall College of Law, Cleveland State University, Nicole Townsend from Rutgers University School of Law and Frederick Zarate at Brooklyn Law School.

During the course of the summer the interns worked on a range of matters, including media and organizational outreach for our segregated care campaign, assisting in intake and research and writing for fact sheets on behalf of our Disability Law Center.

"This year's class of summer interns was an exceptionally diverse and bright group. They brought a wide range of perspectives to our efforts and did an outstanding job on the many issues and projects in which they were involved. It was a pleasure to work with them at NYLPI and we hope they continue to pursue their commitment to public interest lawyering."

— Marianne Engelman Lado, NYLPI General Counsel

NYLPI appreciates their enthusiasm, their diligence, and their commitment to public interest work. We wish them all the best in their future endeavors, as they build careers pursuing justice on behalf of underserved communities.

"This experience has rekindled my passion and given me new direction. I am truly excited about my future as a public interest lawyer. The mentorship and exposure I received while being able to serve communities that I am passionate about has been a wonderful opportunity."

— Monique Luse, Georgetown University Law Center

Help Ensure the Future of NYLPI's Programs

More than thirty years after our creation by Cyrus Vance and other leaders of the New York City Bar in 1976, NYLPI seeks to ensure our financial longevity, which we can do with your support.

NYLPI invites you to become a valued member of the Legacy of Justice Society, a unique group of donors who have shown a strong commitment to social justice by making a planned gift to NYLPI.

Your Legacy of Justice Society gift will:

- Provide you with tax benefits, and in some cases reduce the estate and income taxes of your beneficiaries;

- Provide NYLPI with a long-term financial reserve to support our work protecting the rights of the underrepresented;
- Inspire friends and colleagues to join in your commitment to social justice.

Additional benefits include recognition in our publications (unless you prefer anonymity), invitations to our events, regular updates on our program work, and more.

NYLPI Kicks Off Visiting Summer Associates Program

On Tuesday, June 10th, NYLPI kicked off its Visiting Summer Associates Program with a beautiful cocktail reception at Weil, Gotshal & Manges LLP.

Each summer, NYLPI places summer associates from our member firms at public interest law offices in New York City for two-week externships. This summer we had 23 law firms participate by sending over 125 summer associates to 38 public interest law offices.

The program provides summer associates with an opportunity to experience public interest law first hand, in the hope that the experience will serve as a foundation for a lifetime commitment to pro bono. In addition, public interest organizations benefit from additional legal resources. The work done by summer associates varies from legal research, to accompanying attorneys to court appearances and hearings, to handling intake.

NYLPI thanks our member firms, the public interest legal organizations, and the summer associates themselves for supporting the program.

Words from a Host Organization . . .

"The Vera Institute of Justice has participated in the NYLPI program for 19 years. The associates who come to us have been invaluable. People are sometimes skeptical about a law student's ability to do useful work in a one- or two-week period. But in our experience, they can explore an area in a way that we rarely have time to do, and in doing so, produce memos that serve us well for years, in situations beyond the ones that prompted the assignments."

—Susan Rai, Special Counsel,
Vera Institute of Justice

Words from a Summer Associate . . .

"I had a fabulous externship experience at Vera. Although the externship was only two weeks, in that time I was able to complete a lengthy memorandum on a substantive legal issue, and to receive helpful feedback from my supervisor there. I am so grateful to have had the opportunity to devote two weeks of my summer exclusively to public interest work, particularly at such an exciting organization. It was wonderful to gain exposure to Vera's incredible work."

Their research also exposed these paths as not only separate, but unequal in quality and accessibility. The report further concluded that this systemic inequality is a contributor to the widespread health disparities that exist today between minorities and people of color and whites.

“In short, what we’ve found includes pervasive segregation of care, based on the insurance status of people in the community. As blacks and Latinos are two to three times more likely to be uninsured or publicly insured, there is a close link between race, ethnicity and insurance status. This results in the systematic channeling of whites and minorities into different systems of care,” said Neil Calman, M.D., President of the

Farewell to Stephen Kang, Assistant Director of Pro Bono Programs

“Stephen has brought his unique blend of sensitivity, wit and intelligence to our work with groups and firms.”

— Marnie Berk, Director of Pro Bono Programs

For three years Stephen Kang contributed greatly to NYLPI, first as a Program Associate in our Pro Bono Clearinghouse and later as the Assistant Director of Pro Bono Programs. This fall he began NYU Law School as a prestigious Root-Tilden-Kern Scholar, established to nurture leaders in public service. His strong interest in the law led Stephen to NYLPI after providing direct social services for several years. Stephen was instrumental in connecting nonprofits and community groups with volunteer attorneys from NYLPI’s member law firms while insuring the highest quality legal services. He consistently earned the praise of nonprofit leaders seeking these services. Stephen helped transform the organization’s pro bono communications sending our renowned weekly email. As editor of our newsletter, Pro Bono Matters, he greatly improved and expanded its content while our circulation grew to over 7,000 lawyers across the country. He made an extraordinary impact on our Clearinghouse program. We at NYLPI wish him the best of luck at law school and in his future endeavors. Stephen is replaced by Yoonmee Cho, our new Program Associate, who comes to us with a background in corporate marketing and communications.

NYLPI Thanks John S. Siffert, Former NYLPI Board Chair

John S. Siffert

As the Board chairmanship of John S. Siffert, a member of the NYLPI Board since June 1998, comes to an end, NYLPI would like to recognize and thank John for his tireless efforts on behalf of the organization and its mission.

John, a partner at Lankler Siffert & Wohl LLP, is recognized by colleagues for his focus and leadership by example. His legacy as NYLPI Board Chair includes dedicated efforts to greatly increase the fundraising of the organization to ensure that NYLPI will continue to grow for years to come. John passionately supported increasing the capacity of the organization to carry out our mission of serving under-represented communities.

John is succeeded by Christopher K. Tahbaz, partner at Debevoise & Plimpton LLP, who says of his predecessor, “During his tenure as Chair, John demonstrated “John raised the bar for all of us in undertaking our new campaign initiative and raising the profile of the excellent work of NYLPI. His dedication and commitment inspire all of us to strengthen our collective efforts in working for social justice. John leads by example where his actions speak volumes louder than his words. And he always does so with the grace and compassion of a true leader.”

Pro Bono Advisory Council Advises Law Students on Public Service

NYLPI's Pro Bono Advisory Council continues its work to encourage law students entering major law firms to make pro bono work an ongoing part of their legal practice.

On July 8th, 2008, members of the Pro Bono Advisory Council addressed an audience of 40 summer associates from New York's top firms about pro bono practice in the law firm world. The speakers included Moderator, Erin J. Law of Weil, Gotshal & Manges LLP, and panelists, Philippine Dodd of Sullivan & Cromwell LLP, Olga L. Fuentes Skinner of Kasowitz, Benson, Torres & Friedman LLP, P. Nikhil Rao of Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP and Marion E. Ringel of Simpson Thacher & Bartlett LLP.

"Incorporating pro bono work into my practice was very important to me as a junior associate, and I was able to hit the ground running through the collaborative efforts of my firm and those of a number of NYC-based non-profit legal organizations like NYLPI. Through pro bono work, I was able to give something back to the community, and in turn, the experience enabled me to learn valuable skills that have enhanced my overall practice."

— Erin J. Law, Weil, Gotshal & Manges LLP

The panelists shared their experiences and spoke of the benefits that pro bono work has had on them both personally and professionally. They also answered questions from audience members, providing valuable personal insights and advice.

One panelist spoke of pro bono work as an experience that "can be a really integral part of your career not only because you want to do pro bono, but because you want to be a better lawyer."

The panelists encouraged the summer associates to consider their pro bono options and to take advantage of the opportunities ahead of them. P. Nikhil Rao remarked, "For associates at large firms, pro bono work can really be a win-win. While you are providing much-needed advice to underserved communities, you will also gain valuable experience. I have tried to make pro bono a regular part of my practice."

NYLPI Achieves Settlement on Pier 11 Ferry Accessibility

New York ferries have become more accessible to people with disabilities. On April 30th, 2008, a settlement agreement became effective between a group of individuals with disabilities represented by NYLPI, NY Waterway, the area's largest private ferryboat operator, and the New York City Commission on Human Rights. The agreement required that a number of steps be completed by the end of July to ensure disability access to services at Pier 11, near the foot of Wall Street, the City's private ferryboat hub.

"The ferry system was expanding fast, there were still no federal guidelines, and it was inaccessible. That's why this complaint was necessary," said John A. Gresham, NYLPI Senior Litigation Counsel and representative of the complainants in the settlement.

The complaint was filed following a demonstration held in 2002, organized by Disabled in Action. Several individuals with disabilities, most of whom use wheelchairs, discovered they were unable to board ferries at Pier 11. Now, several years later, NY Waterway has succeeded in addressing their concerns by making the necessary adjustments to ensure access for all individuals.

Thomas K. Small, one of the complainants, summed up the victory by saying, "We have some good progress here, but there is a lot of work still ahead of us. Transportation is a terrible problem for many of us with disabilities. We're in this for the long haul."

NYLPI Supporters Tee Off at Sixth Annual Golf Outing

On July 9th, 2008, NYLPI held its sixth annual Golf Outing at Bethpage State Park. The event was a great success, with a total of over $120,000 raised to support NYLPI's critical work.

Just after noon, 163 players teed off in a shotgun start on Bethpage's Red and Blue courses. At the evening reception, NYLPI recognized the following individuals for their skills on the golf course:

Michael Weiss, Greg Alfredo, and Joseph De Simone of Mayer Brown LLP and Fernando Margáin-Sada of Thompson & Knight LLP won the Best Team Score on the Red Course, while Joseph Gordon of TSG Reporting, Inc. and Grant Herring, James Dailey, and Daniel Deevey of the Aldan Troy Group took home the title of Best Team Score on the Blue Course.

Mark Bernstein from Dewey & LeBoeuf LLP won this year's putting contest. The recognition for the male longest drive went to John Tetta from Rallye Lexus and female longest drive was awarded to NYLPI Board Member Kathy Rocklen from Proskauer Rose LLP.

NYLPI congratulates the winners, and sincerely thanks all of this year's participants and supporters.

In Need of a Home, Not a Nursing Home Lawsuit Clears its First Hurdle

NYLPI, Disability Advocates, Inc. (DAI), Mental Hygiene Legal Services (MHLS) and the law firm of Schiff Hardin cleared their first major hurdle this April in their lawsuit, filed in 2006, which aims to put an end to New York State's practice of discharging adults with mental illnesses from state psychiatric institutions and hospital psychiatric wards into nursing homes.

Hundreds of individuals, including the named plaintiffs, Joseph S. and Steven W., have been discharged to nursing homes in New York City, New Jersey and Massachusetts instead of being placed in supportive community-based settings, as required under federal law. Many have been languishing in these nursing homes for years.

Karen A. lives on the third floor of a New Jersey nursing home with the other residents with mental illnesses. A pass is required to leave that floor and can only be used for designated one hour periods throughout the day. Only those who are "doing good" are afforded a pass. Juan R. is an artist who "paints" with a toothbrush because he has no paint brush. Charles B. wants fresh vegetables.

These individuals do not have physical or medical conditions requiring care in a nurs-

"The State must address the housing needs of people with mental illness and not simply discharge them into nursing homes without appropriate care or a plan of discharge."

NYLPI Senior Staff Attorney

ing home and they are much younger than the rest of the nursing home population. Frequently, they do not receive the mental health services they need to complete a full recovery. Often far from the residents' original homes, these nursing homes essentially serve as warehouses for human beings.

"The pro bono counsel from Schiff Hardin on this matter has been extremely important," said Sandra Del Valle, Senior Staff Attorney with NYLPI. "They are an integral part of the team and have always been willing to step up to the plate for this important issue."

After full briefing, Judge Brian Cogan has denied the State's motion to dismiss and the case is going forward with intense discovery.

Lori Greendorfer, a counsel at Schiff Hardin, stated that "the wrongs committed against these individuals still have not been addressed by the State. Judge Cogan's decision is the first step in the vindication of their rights."

Floyd, nursing home resident.

NYLPI Staff Updates

NYLPI attorneys and staff have been speaking to and impacting a range of audiences with regards to our civil rights work and pro bono activities

Amanda Masters, Senior Staff Attorney in the Opportunity and Access Program, and Stephen Kang, former Assistant Director of Pro Bono, were honored by Sisterhood Mobilized for AIDS/HIV Research and Treatment (SMART), a not-for-profit organization that works to provide treatment and prevention education and support for women and youths living with HIV/AIDS in order to increase their self-confidence and self-esteem. In-House Update

The Disability Law Center

Education

(Lisa Isaacs, Director)

Placement Success: Trystin is an eight-year old boy with emotional disturbance and a history of aggressive behavior. Trystin's school felt he belonged in a much more segregated setting. Although unconvinced this would be appropriate, his mother allowed the Department of Education (DOE) to change his placement. Once Trystin began taking medication that addressed his aggressive behavior, his mother contacted NYLPI because she felt his placement was too restrictive. NYLPI's Advocacy Specialist attended a mediation session with the DOE and crafted an agreement for a more inclusive program.

Improving Our Direct Service: NYLPI has embarked upon two special projects to streamline our direct service work. NYLPI staff are working with the legal department at Goldman Sachs to improve content on our website and to update fact sheets and information that are provided to parents, advocates, and our pro bono partners. In addition, attorneys from DLA Piper US LLP have agreed to take on cases involving private school placements with NYLPI staff serving as mentors.

Opportunity and Access

(Amanda Masters, Director)

Subway Accessibility for People with Vision Impairments: NYLPI is working to address accessibility barriers on subways, specifically the lack of tactile warning strips at platform edges. Without the warning strips, people who are blind and visually-impaired are at risk of dangerous accidents on subway platforms. NYLPI, with Chadbourne & Parke LLP, will conduct an empirical investigation of the stations, as well as conduct outreach to riders, in order to draft and publish an investigative report that will advocate for the Transit Authority to install detectable warning strips at all platforms.

Service Animal Victory: A.T. is blind and deaf and uses a service dog. Since moving to the South Bronx, he has consistently been refused entry to various establishments in his neighborhood when accompanied by his service dog. NYLPI worked with the New York City Human Rights Commission to make stores aware of their legal obligations in accordance with the ADA and other state and local non-discrimination laws. After discussions and negotiations, all the venues have posted signs indicating that service animals are allowed, and A.T. has begun to patronize the stores.

Deinstitutionalization

(Roberta Mueller, Director)

L.J. vs. OMRDD and ACS: NYLPI and co-counsel Patterson Belknap Webb & Tyler LLP and Lawyers for Children continue work on this challenge in state court to policies and practices of the city foster care agency (ACS) and the state Office of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities (OMRDD). Recently the presiding judge granted our motion for class certification and denied ACS's motion for partial summary judgment. The court certified a broad class consisting of all children with developmental disabilities who have been, are, or will be in foster care under the authority of ACS.

Brad H.: The Brad H. v. City of New York settlement, entered in 2003, required the City to conduct discharge planning to continued treatment of jail inmates with mental illness after their release to the community. This planning included steps to reactivate Medicaid for inmates who lost coverage because of incarceration. The trial court has required that the City provide temporary coverage, pending completion of processing, to a few class members with an "immediate need" for coverage in order to secure treatment. Subsequently the applicability of the "immediate need" standard to Medicaid was tested again in a related case. Assuming the previous results of this case stands, the availability of temporary benefits should be available statewide to those in "immediate need" who appear eligible – including inmates and low-income applicants generally.

Environmental Justice

(Veronica Eady Famira, Director)

PCBs in the Schools: NYLPI has been carrying out an investigation into the presence of PCBs in caulk used around window and door frames and in expansion joints in public schools. PCBs, banned in 1978, are highly toxic compounds and are especially dangerous to children, and NYLPI staff have been conducting legal and factual research into the problem, as well as reaching out to concerned parents, particularly in the Bronx.

Artificial Turf: In response to plans to install an artificial turf football field at the Mott Haven School to cap remaining contamination, and the subsequent concerns raised about the risk of exposure to toxins found in the rubber-infill used, NYLPI is involved in pushing for stronger environmental review for these plans. NYLPI and a small coalition have met with the Mayor's office and state officials for negotiations. NYLPI's activism was highlighted in two NY Times articles and helped to prompt an in-depth study by the State Department of Environmental Conservation. NYLPI is in the process of analyzing legal avenues to force a more thorough environmental review, and has discussed legislative options with key City Council staffers.

Intro. 650: NYLPI has worked to oppose Intro. 650, a City Council legislation initiated by the NYPD that could hinder independent environmental experts' ability to gather and disseminate environmental data. NYLPI's legal analyses and political advocacy have helped build opposition within the City Council and push the NYPD to substantially amend the bill to lessen its potential negative impacts. The bill is pending in the City Council's Public Safety Committee.

Faith Breakfasts: On April 30th, NYLPI, along with faith and community partners, held a faith breakfast in Manhattan, connecting faith institutions with environmental justice and environmental health organizations. NYLPI's partners in organizing the breakfast included WE ACT for Environmental Justice and NY Faith & Justice.

Access to Health Care

Emergency Preparedness in Nursing

Homes: NYLPI has been partnering with Cohen & Gresser LLP on a project to analyze the sufficiency of emergency evacuation plans at nursing homes in New York City. The State Department of Health issued a blanket denial of our FOIL request for copies of these evacuation plans, which Cohen & Gresser has appealed in state court.

The National Campaign to Restore Civil Rights

(Cristóbal Joshua Alex, Director)

Supreme Court Litigation: Based in part on our successful advocacy before the United Nations last February, the Campaign is working with Morrison & Foerster LLP on a brief of amicus curiae to the U.S. Supreme Court. The case, Pearson v. Callahan, will provide an opportunity for the Court to revisit the doctrine of qualified immunity, which creates a rights-remedies gap that leaves many victims of civil rights violations with no recourse.

Community Oversight of Policing Project

(Amanda Masters, Director)

Cerbelli v. City of New York: This past quarter, NYLPI was joined by pro bono counsel from Mayer Brown LLP in a case challenging the police department's treatment of people with psychiatric disabilities. Plaintiffs defended the case against motions for summary judgment before Judge Levy of the Eastern District of New York.
