

New York Lawyers for the Public Interest, Inc.
151 W. 30th St.
11th Floor
New York, NY 10001-4017
Tel 212-244-4664
Fax 212-244-4570
TTY 212-244-3692
www.nylpi.org

Testimony of Noelle Peñas, Health Justice Community Organizer on behalf of New York Lawyers for the Public Interest before the Council of the City of New York Committee on Fire and Emergency Management’s Preliminary Budget Hearing

March 13, 2023

My name is Noelle Peñas and I am the Health Justice Community Organizer at New York Lawyers for the Public Interest (NYLPI). Thank you for the opportunity to present testimony today on the Preliminary Budget for Fiscal Year 2024, specifically regarding the funds in the Fire Department Budget allocated to B-HEARD or Behavioral Health Emergency Assistance Response Division. B-HEARD is a deeply flawed pilot program which purports to move the City away from responding to people experiencing mental health crises as a threat to public safety – but in fact is part of the long tradition of policing, criminalizing, and under- and mis-serving people with mental disabilities. NYLPI, as a member of Correct Crisis Intervention Today – NYC (CCIT-NYC), a coalition of over 80 New York City Organizations committed to mental health issues, advocates for non-police first response teams for people experiencing mental health crises. Funding B-HEARD diverts money from what we need – a true non-police response system that offers voluntary healthcare, including teams of peers (those with lived mental health experience) 24/7 operating hours, calls routed through 988, and above all, prioritizes the self-determination of people with mental disabilities.

Last year, the City's budget dedicated $55 million to B-HEARD. On March 2, 2023, Mayor Adams announced a Mental Health Agenda with expanded funding for B-HEARD, despite the program's failure to adequately respond to mental-health crises. The preliminary FY24 budget dedicates $18 million to the Health and Hospitals Department for B-HEARD, but left unclear where the remainder of the funding requested by the Mayor will come from in the budget. NYLPI is concerned that, like last year, B-HEARD will continue to receive substantial city funding, despite its major faults and that it will again be funded through the Fire Department budget. Resources for mental-health crisis response should be funded as healthcare, not public safety. Instead of draining funds from the Fire Department, the City should properly fund a non-police response system led by healthcare workers. There is no role for the Fire Department (or Police Department) in providing healthcare to people experiencing mental health crises.

CCIT-NYC has proposed an alternative program for a non-police response system – one that avoids the many flaws and shortcomings of B-HEARD. Our proposal is based on CAHOOTS (Crisis Assistance Helping Out On The Streets), a highly successful Oregon program that has a 35-year track record of success responding to mental health crises without causing a single serious injury, much less death. As a member of CCIT-NYC, and as an organization fully committed to the rights of New Yorkers with disabilities, NYLPI is asking today for the City Council to enact into legislation and fund – including by utilizing the $18 million currently allocated for B-HEARD in the Fire and Emergency Management budget – to the CCIT-NYC proposal, which is a true, safe alternative to police-driven first responses for mental health crises.

THE CITY MUST ENTIRELY REVAMP THE B-HEARD PILOT AS THE PILOT AUTHORIZES EXTENSIVE POLICE INVOLVEMENT AND IS LIKELY TO CONTINUE OR EVEN INCREASE THE RATE OF VIOLENT RESPONSES BY THE NYPD

The City, via its Mayor’s Office of Community Mental Health (formerly ThriveNYC), introduced a pilot program in 2021 that it contends is responsive to the need to cease the killings at the hands of the police of individuals experiencing mental health crises. Unfortunately, that is simply not the case, despite the City’s glowing description of the program. Among B-HEARD’s grim statistics are the following:

- An astronomical 84% of all calls in B-HEARD precincts continue to be directed to the NYPD, even twelve months after its kick-off.
- Even when all kinks are ironed out, the City anticipates continuing to have a nearly-as-astronomical 50% of all calls directed to the NYPD.
- Moreover, all calls continue to go through 911, which is under the NYPD’s jurisdiction.

- The entire program is run by the Fire Department and other City agencies, with NO* role whatsoever for community organizations. And there is not even any delineation of the lines of authority and communication among the various city agencies.
- The crisis response teams are composed of emergency medical technicians (EMTs) who are City employees (from the Fire Department) who are deeply enmeshed in the current police-led response system. Peers do not trust these EMTs. The other team members are licensed clinical social workers. The licensure and clinical orientation requirements are unnecessary and they also preclude a vast array of potential candidates who have excellent skills and a long history of working with people experiencing crises.
- B-HEARD has NO* requirement to hire peers.
- The training of the teams does NOT require a trauma-informed framework, need NOT be experiential, and need NOT use skilled instructors who are peers or even care providers.
- The anticipated response time for crisis calls could be as long as half an hour, and when last reviewed averaged over fifteen minutes, which is not even remotely comparable to the City's response times for other emergencies of 8-11 minutes.
- The pilot operates only sixteen hours a day.
- There are no outcome/effectiveness metrics.

- There is no oversight mechanism.

A comparison of the CCIT-NYC proposal, which is based on the CAHOOTS model with a stellar track record, and the B-HEARD program, which is not aligned with any best practices, is illustrated in the following chart:

Critical Attributes of a Mental Health Crisis Response System	CCIT-NYC's Proposal	NYC's B-HEARD Proposal
Removal of police responders	YES	NO (currently, 84% of calls are still responded to by police, and even when all kinks are removed, 50% of calls will still be responded to by police)
Three-digit phone number such as 988, in lieu of 911.	YES	NO
Response team to consist of an independent EMT and a trained peer who has lived experience of mental health crises and know best how to engage people in need of support	YES	NO (licensed clinical social worker and EMT employed by the New York City Bureau of Emergency Medical Services)
Crisis response program run by community-based entity/ies which will provide culturally competent care and will more likely have a history with the person in need and can intervene prior to a crisis	YES	NO (run by New York City Police Department and other City agencies)
Peer involvement in all aspects of planning/implementation/oversight	YES	NO
Oversight board consisting of 51% peers from low-income communities, especially Black, Latinx, and other communities of color	YES	NO

Creation/funding of non-coercive mental health services (“safety net”), including respite centers and 24/7 mental health care to minimize crises in the first place and to serve those for whom crisis de-escalation is insufficient	YES	NO
Response times comparable to those of other emergencies	YES	NO (Current response time of 15 minutes, 30 seconds -- compared with average response time of 8-11 minutes for non-mental health emergencies)
Response available 24/7	YES	NO (Response only available 16 hours/day)
Training of the teams to use a trauma-informed framework, be experiential, and use skilled instructors who are peers	YES	NO

NYLPI therefore urges the Council to ensure that the money previously allocated for a non-police mental health crisis response, be utilized solely for a truly non-police response such as the CCIT-NYC model, and not be utilized for the B-HEARD program in its current iteration.

THE CITY MUST WHOLLY TRANSFORM ITS RESPONSE TO MENTAL HEALTH CRISES BY ELIMINATING POLICE AND REPLACING THEM WITH A PEER-LED HEALTH RESPONSE

The City must join other cities across the country – including Los Angeles, San Francisco, Albuquerque, Denver, New Haven and many more – to remove police entirely from the equation, and ensure that healthcare workers respond to healthcare crises.

The City must establish a system whereby individuals who experience a mental health crisis receive appropriate services which will de-escalate the crisis and ensure their wellbeing and the wellbeing of all other New Yorkers. Only those who are trained in de-escalation practices should respond to a mental health crisis, and the most appropriate individuals to receive such training are peers and health care providers.<sup>1</sup> Reliance on police officers and FDNY EMTs in these situations is burdensome to the NYPD and to the FDNY. At the February 6 City Council Hearing regarding Mental Health Involuntary Removals and Mayor Adams’ Recently Announced Plan, Oren Barzilay, a 25-year veteran of the FDNY EMS, shared his concern about the additional burden placed on the EMS system.<sup>2</sup> He testified that the police, who are trained to uphold law and order, are ill suited to deal with individuals experiencing mental health crises. New York’s history of police killing 19 individuals who were experiencing crises in the last six years alone is sad testament to that. Eliminating the police as mental health crisis responders has been shown to result in quicker recovery from crises, greater connections with long-term healthcare services and other community resources, and averting future crises.<sup>3</sup>

---

<sup>1</sup> Martha Williams Deane, et al., “Emerging Partnerships between Mental Health and Law Enforcement,” Psychiatric Services (1999), http://ps.psychiatryonline.org/doi/abs/10.1176/ps.50.1.99?url\_ver=Z39.88-2003&rfr\_id=ori%3Arid%3Acrossref.org&rfr\_dat=cr\_pub%3Dpubmed&#/doi/abs/10.1176/ps.50.1.99?url\_ver=Z39.88-2003&rfr\_id=ori%3Arid%3Acrossref.org&rfr\_dat=cr\_pub%3Dpubmed.

<sup>2</sup> <https://legistar.council.nyc.gov/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=5993303&GUID=CFEF7D06-B00B-4B22-8D71-B74AD1529788&Options=&Search=>

The scores of people experiencing mental health crises who have died at the hands of the police over the years is a microcosm of the police brutality around the world. Disability is disproportionately prevalent in the Black community and other communities of color,<sup>4</sup> and individuals who are shot and killed by the police when experiencing mental health crises – and certainly we must all oppose the Mayor’s efforts to increase the role and funding of the NYPD as it relates to people with mental disabilities. Lives are literally at stake.

Correct Crisis Intervention Today – NYC has developed the needed antidote. Modeled on the CAHOOTS program in Oregon, which has successfully operated for over 30 years without any major injuries to respondents or responders – let alone deaths -- the CCIT-NYC proposal is positioned to make non-police responses available to those experiencing mental health crises in New York City. The proposal avoids the enormous pitfalls of the City’s B-HEARD pilot, which it inaccurately refers to as a non-police model. Hallmarks of the CCIT-NYC proposal are:

---

<sup>3</sup> Henry J. Steadman, et al., “A Specialized Crisis Response Site as a Core Element of Police-Based Diversion Programs,” Psychiatric Services (2001), http://ps.psychiatryonline.org/doi/10.1176/appi.ps.52.2.219?utm\_source=TrendMD&utm\_medium=cpc&utm\_campaign=Psychiatric\_Services\_TrendMD\_0.

<sup>4</sup> Mayor’s Office for People with Disabilities, “Accessible NYC” (2016), https://www1.nyc.gov/assets/mopd/downloads/pdf/accessiblenyc\_2016.pdf.

- teams of trained peers and emergency medical technicians who are independent of city government;
- teams run by culturally-competent community organizations;
- response times comparable to those of other emergencies;
- 24/7 operating hours;
- calls routed to 988 rather than the city-operated 911; and
- oversight by an advisory board of 51% or more peers.

The full text of the CCIT-NYC proposal can be found at <http://www.ccitnyc.org/who><http://www.ccitnyc.org/who-we-are/our-proposal/we-are/our-proposal/>.

The B-HEARD program is deeply flawed, and its budget can and should be used to create a program based on the CAHOOTS program instead. This program would cost $190 million annually to implement.<sup>5</sup> This investment is necessary for the long-term health and care of New Yorkers, as community-response programs have been shown not just to reduce fatal encounters and free up valuable police resources, but to also generate net-positive financial and social benefits.

THE CITY COUNCIL MUST ENSURE THAT NEW YORKERS HAVE ACCESS TO A WIDE RANGE OF VOLUNTARY NON-HOSPITAL, COMMUNITY-BASED MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES THAT

---

<sup>5</sup> The cost is based on the sum initially allocated by the City Council in 2021 to implement B-HEARD city-wide of $112 million, and the need to extend the program from 16 hours a day to 24 hours a day, for a cost of $168 million. An additional $22 million is required for trainings, evaluations, equipment, and uniforms, which also were not in the B-HEARD budget.

PROMOTE RECOVERY AND WELLNESS, AS WELL AS A FULL PANOPLY OF COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCLUDING HOUSING, EMPLOYMENT, AND EDUCATION, BY ALLOCATING FUNDING FOR SUCH PROGRAMS

Since NYLPI was established nearly 50 years ago, we have prioritized advocating on behalf of individuals with mental health conditions, and we have consistently fought to ensure that the rights of individuals with mental health conditions are protected by every aspect of New York’s service delivery system. Core to our work is the principle of self-determination for all individuals with disabilities, along with the right to access a robust healthcare system that is available on a voluntary, non-coercive basis.

We have long been on record opposing mandatory outpatient and inpatient treatment for insufficiently safeguarding the rights of persons with mental health concerns and failing to offer appropriate healthcare. New York City must invest in models of care that utilize trained peers instead of police as first responders, which will facilitate the successful implementation of harm reduction and de-escalation techniques during crises.

If individuals experiencing mental health crises or alcohol/drug addiction receive community treatment, society will benefit from reduced incarceration.<sup>6</sup> Additionally, the use of community-response programs for mental health or alcohol/drug addiction crises can improve police job satisfaction, as many police officers do not see these incidents as part of their job and would prefer not to respond to these calls.<sup>7</sup> This proposal will alleviate the burden on police officers, and is also a fiscally sensible alternative. Community-response programs lead to net positive savings in terms of total government expenditure, both in direct savings (reduced policing costs) and indirect savings (reductions in incarceration and emergency room visits).<sup>8</sup>

---

<sup>6</sup> Ashna Arora & Panka Bencsik, Policing Substance Use: Chicago’s Treatment Program for Narcotics Arrests, (Working Paper, 2021).

We know how to help those with the most severe mental illness, but we fail to do so as a society by providing services that are insufficient or not held to the highest accountability. We face complete system failure, yet we have done little to correct the failure, and even point our fingers at those most affected by the system failure. We must stop the finger pointing and fix the system. We must invest in innovative, voluntary health programs. As we now surely know all too well, the police, who are steeped in law and order, are not well-suited to deal with individuals with mental health concerns. We must invest in supportive housing and quality community services. B-HEARD, instead of providing people the help they need, fails to connect individuals to care and also places them at risk of violence from the police.

---

<sup>7</sup> Waters, supra note 16, at 867; Simmons et al., supra note 6, at 33; Toby Miles-Johnson & Matthew Morgan, Operational Response: Policing Persons with Mental Illness in Australia, 55 J CRIMINOLOGY 260, 260 (2022). Trevor Viersen, Exploring Police Officers' Perceptions of Mobile Crisis Rapid Response Teams Within a Nodal Policing Framework, (Theses and Dissertations, 2017).

<sup>8</sup> See Natania Marcus & Vicky Stergiopoulos, Re-examining Mental Health Crisis Intervention: A Rapid Review Comparing Outcomes Across Police, Co-responder and Non-police Models, 30 HEALTH & SOC. CARE COMMUNITY, supra note 3, at 1674–75 (2022).

CONCLUSION

NYLPI respectfully requests that the Council:

- .Enact into legislation and fund the CCIT-NYC proposal to create a non-police, peer-driven mental health crisis response that offers voluntary healthcare, operates 24/7, routes calls to 988 rather than the NYPD-operated 911, and above all, prioritizes the self-determination of individuals experiencing mental health crises;
- Ensure that any funding allocated to B-HEARD in the Fire and Emergency Management budget be spent on the CCIT-NYC proposal.; and
- Ensure that New Yorkers have access to a wide range of non-hospital, community-based mental health services that promote recovery and wellness, as well as a full panoply of community services, including housing, employment, and education, by allocating funding for such programs. Thank you for your consideration. I can be reached at (212) 244-4664 or npenas@nylpi.org, and I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how best to respond to the needs of individuals experiencing mental health crises in New York City.

###

About New York Lawyers for the Public Interest

For nearly 50 years, New York Lawyers for the Public Interest (NYLPI) has been a leading civil rights advocate for New Yorkers marginalized by race, poverty, disability, and immigration status. Through our community lawyering model, we bridge the gap between traditional civil legal services and civil rights, building strength and capacity for both individual solutions and long-term impact. Our work integrates the power of individual representation, impact litigation, and comprehensive organizing and policy campaigns. Guided by the priorities of our communities, we strive to achieve equality of opportunity and self-determination for people with disabilities, create equal access to health care, ensure immigrant opportunity, strengthen local nonprofits, and secure environmental justice for low-income communities of color.

NYLPI's Disability Justice Program works to advance the civil rights of New Yorkers with disabilities. In the past five years alone, NYLPI disability advocates have represented thousands of individuals and won campaigns improving the lives of hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers. Our landmark victories include integration into the community for people with mental illness, access to medical care and government services, and increased accessibility of New York City's public hospitals. Working together with NYLPI's Health Justice Program, we prioritize the reform of New York City's response to individuals experiencing mental health crises. We have successfully litigated to obtain the body-worn camera footage from the NYPD officers who shot and killed individuals experiencing mental health crises. In late 2021, NYLPI and co-counsel filed a class action lawsuit which seeks to halt New York's practice of dispatching police to respond to mental health crises, and in the context of that lawsuit, seeks relief on behalf of individuals affected by the Mayor's Involuntary Removal Policy.

Community Voluntary Long-Term Innovations for At-Risk Individuals

Residential

Crisis Respite – Intensive Crisis Residential Program: OMH program: “a safe place for the stabilization of psychiatric symptoms and a range of services from support to treatment services for children and adults. are intended to be located in the community and provide a home-like setting.” <https://omh.ny.gov/omhweb/bho/docs/crisis-residence-program-guidance.pdf>.

Crisis Respite (shorter term and less intensive): OMH Program: “Crisis Respite Centers provide an alternative to hospitalization for people experiencing emotional crises. They are warm, safe and supportive home-like places to rest and recover when more support is needed than can be provided at home. The Crisis Respite Centers offer stays for up to one week and provide an open-door setting where people can continue their daily activities. Trained peers and non-peers work with individuals to help them successfully overcome emotional crises. <https://www1.nyc.gov/site/doh/health/health-topics/crisis-emergency-services-respite-centers.page>.

Peer Crisis Respite programs: OMH funded; Peer operated short-term crisis respites that are home-like alternatives to hospital psychiatric ERs and inpatient units. Guests can stay up to seven nights, and they can come-and-go for appointments, jobs, and other essential needs. Offers a “full, customizable menu of services designed to help them understand what happened that caused their crisis, educate them about skills and resources that can help in times of emotional distress, explore the relationship between their current situation and their overall well-being, resolve the issues that brought them to the house, learn simple and effective ways to feel better, connect with other useful services and supports in the community, and feel comfortable returning home after their stay.” <https://people-usa.org/program/rose-houses/>.

Housing First: a housing approach that prioritizes permanent housing for people experiencing homelessness and frequently serious mental illness and substance use issues. Supportive services including substance use counseling and treatment are part of the model, but abstinence or even engagement in services is not required. <https://endhomelessness.org/resource/housing-first/>.

Soteria: a Therapeutic Community Residence for the prevention of hospitalization for individuals experiencing a distressing extreme state, commonly referred to as psychosis. We believe that psychosis can be a temporary experience that one works through rather than a chronic mental illness that needs to be managed. We practice the approach of “being with” – this is a process of actively staying present with people and learning about their experiences. <https://www.pathwaysvermont.org/what-we-do/our-programs/soteria-house/>.

Safe Haven: provides transitional housing for vulnerable street homeless individuals, primarily women. “low-threshold” resources: they have fewer requirements, making them attractive to those who are resistant to emergency shelter. Safe Havens offer intensive case management, along with mental health and substance abuse assistance, with the ultimate goal of moving each client into permanent housing. <https://breakingground.org/our-housing/midwood>.

Family Crisis Respite: trained and paid community members with extra space in their homes provide respite for individuals who can thereby avoid hospitalization.

Living Room model: a community crisis center that offers people experiencing a mental health crisis an alternative to hospitalization. health crises a calm and safe environment. The community outpatient centers are open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and people receive care immediately. Services include: crisis intervention, a safe place in which to rest and relax, support from peer counselors; intervention from professional counselors including teaching de-escalation skills and developing safety plans, Linkage with referrals for emergency housing, healthcare, food, and mental health services. https://smiadviser.org/knowledge\_post/what-is-the-living-room-model-for-people-experiencing-a-mental-health-crisis.

Crisis Stabilization Centers: 24/7 community crisis response hub where people of all ages can connect immediately with an integrated team of clinical counselors, peer specialists, and behavioral health professionals, as well as to our local community's health & human service providers, to address any mental health, addiction, or social determinant of health needs. People use the Stabilization Center when they're experiencing emotional distress, acute psychiatric symptoms, addiction challenges, intoxication, family issues, and other life stressors. <https://people-usa.org/program/crisis-stabilization-center/>.

Parachute NYC / Open Dialogue: provides a non-threatening environment where people who are coming undone can take a break from their turbulent lives and think through their problems before they reach a crisis point. Many who shun hospitals and crisis stabilization units will voluntarily seek help at respite centers. Parachute NYC includes mobile treatment units and phone counseling in addition to the four brick-and-mortar respite centers. <https://www.nyaprs.org/e-news-bulletins/2015/parachute-nyc-highlights-success-of-peer-crisis-model-impact-of-community-access>.

Non-residential

Safe Options Support teams: consisting of direct outreach workers as well as clinicians to help more New Yorkers come off of streets and into shelters and/or housing. SOS CTI Teams will be comprised of licensed clinicians, care managers, peers, and registered nurses. Services will be provided for up to 12 months, pre- and post-housing placement, with an intensive initial outreach and engagement period that includes multiple visits per week, each for several hours. Participants will learn self-management skills and master activities of daily living on the road to self-efficacy and recovery. The teams' outreach will facilitate connection to treatment and support services. The SOS CTI Teams will follow the CTI model – a time-limited, evidence-based service that helps vulnerable individuals during periods of transitions. The teams will be serving individuals as they transition from street homelessness to housing. https://omh.ny.gov/omhweb/rfp/2022/sos/sos\_cti\_rfp.pdf.

Intensive and Sustained Engagement Team (INSET): a model of integrated peer and professional services provides rapid, intensive, flexible and sustained interventions to help individuals who have experienced frequent periods of acute states of distress, frequent emergency room visits, hospitalizations and criminal justice involvement and for whom prior programs of care and support have been ineffective. MHA has found that participants, previously labeled “non-adherent,” “resistant to treatment” or “in need of a higher level of care” and “mandated services,” become voluntarily engaged and motivated to work toward recovery once offered peer connection, hope and opportunities to collaborate, share in decisions and exercise more control over their lives and their services and supports. their treatment plans. Engaged 80% of people either AOT eligible or AOT involved. <https://www.mhawestchester.org/our-services/treatment-support>.

NYAPRS Peer Bridger™ program: a peer-run and staffed model providing transitional support for people being discharged from state and local hospitals, with the goal of helping people to live successfully in the community, breaking cycles of frequent relapses and readmissions. The program include inpatient and community based intensive one on one peer support groups, discharge planning, connection to community resources; provides access to emergency housing, wrap around dollars and free cell phones and minutes. <https://www.nyaprs.org/peer-bridger>.

NYC Mayor’s Office of Community Mental Health Intensive Mobile Treatment teams: provide intensive and continuous support and treatment to individuals right in their communities, where and when they need it. Clients have had recent and frequent contact with the mental health, criminal justice, and homeless services systems, recent behavior that is unsafe and escalating, and who were poorly served by traditional treatment models. IMT teams include mental health, substance use, and peer specialists who provide support and treatment including medication, and facilitate connections to housing and additional supportive services. <https://mentalhealth.cityofnewyork.us/program/intensive-mobile-treatment-imt>.

Pathway Home™: a community-based care transition/management intervention offering intensive, mobile, time-limited services to individuals transitioning from an institutional setting back to the community. CBC acts as a single point of referral to multidisciplinary teams at ten care management agencies (CMAs) in CBC’s broader IPA network. These teams maintain small caseloads and offer flexible interventions where frequency, duration and intensity is tailored to match the individual’s community needs and have the capacity to respond rapidly to crisis. <https://cbcare.org/innovative-programs/pathway-home/>.